CHARLEROI WILL RAISE ITS QUOTA O: IRISH FREEDOM FUND

Captains Appointed for Various Districts Along The River

COUNTY QUOTA PLACED AT $5,000

A campaign is to be launched in Charleroi, preliminary arrangements for which have been made to raise a certain amount of money which will be added to a national fund, to be used in an educational campaign to be launched soon to tell of conditions in Ireland.

A meeting was held in Charleroi Sunday afternoon at which a number of sympathiers with Irish freedom were present and the local situation discussed. The quota for Washington county has been fixed at $5,000 and already Donora, Monongahela and other communities in the county have raised their portion of the fund. The campaign has been dormant in Charleroi, but from now until the date set for its completion, September 15, it will be pushed with vigor. This locality will be asked to subscribe from $1,500 to $2,000, and Captains have been appointed to arrange for the solicitations.

As set forth in the announcement the purposes of this fund, which is known as the Irish Freedom Fund, are

1. To urge and insist that Ireland, one of the oldest nations of Europe be recognized.

2. To oppose and offset propoganda which is falsifying and misrepresenting the facts of American history and Irish history.

3. To insist that the truth of the case of Ireland be given to the American people.

It is proposed to hold a public meeting in the Coyle theatre on Sunday, September 14, at which time a prominent speaker will be here to explain the movement and at the same time give certain facts regarding Ireland the fight for home rule.

The following Captains have been appointed for local districts:

Charleroi—James Welsh, Frank Mangan, Thomas McManus, Martin Feeney, George Newton, Peter Lee, Edward Gallagher, John Buchanan, Thomas Conners and Patrick Connelly.

Lock Four—Tom P. Sloan, J. R. Kelly, J. P. O'Brien, Patrick Lee.

Allenport—David McFall and John Smith.

Vesta—Patrick Acton.

Dunlevy—Michael Dooley.

Mrs. Ella Williams of Charleroi has received a Memoriam card from Gen. John J. Pershing in honor of her son, Private Mansel C. Williams, late a member of Company E, 104th Infantry, who was killed in battle on the 20th day of July, 1918.

Mrs. J. H. Clement is in Pittsburg today attending a luncheon being given in honor of Miss Mary Lindsay who will be an autumn bride. Miss Lindsay is well known in Charleroi.

CLOSING UP DETAILS OF THE CELEBRATION

A meeting of the general committee which had charge of the home-coming celebration last Thursday, was held last evening in the office of Burgess Woodward, at which time many of the details in connection with the demonstration were closed up. A number of bills were presented and ordered paid, while others have not yet been presented. After all expenses have been taken care of the committee believes that it will have a small balance left.

TROUBLES RESULTS IN TROLLEY STRIKE

In an effort to resume street car traffic in Pittsburg on Monday two trolley cars were wrecked in the downtown district and a number of people injured in the trouble which followed. The two cars were sent out from the Craft avenue barn in the afternoon and had reached Fifth avenue and Wood street on the way outbound when the storm broke. Thousands of people had assembled at that point, and the cars found it impossible to get through. Then the trouble started, and before quiet had been restored the cars were badly damaged. Two members of one crew were also injured, and they were taken to the police station to protect them from the mob. The Receivers of the Pittsburg Railways company say the police protection was inadequate, while Mayor Babcock says it is his duty to see that peace and order are preserved. Just when another attempt will be made to operate cars was not stated, but the receivers have demanded that adequate police protection be afforded all cars and this may be granted. In the meantime the receivers have called attention to the fact that all damage done to the property of the company will have to be paid by the county of Allegheny.

No attempt was made on Monday to operate the suburban cars, and it is hardly likely anything will be doing in this respect until the lines in the city are in operation. In the meantime there may be some adjustment of the differences, which have already tied up the cars fir the past twelve days.

WAS TRESPASSER ON RAILROAD TRACKS

Coroner Heffran has filed his report of an inquest to inquire into the death of Steve Ehko, who was fatally injured at the entrance to the Pittsburg Plate Glass company, Sixth street, last Friday night week. The jury found that no one was to blame, and that Ehko was trespassing on the tracks.

First National Bank Buys The Wilbur Hotel Property

One of the largest real estate deals that has taken place in Charleroi for many years was consummated on Friday last, when the Wilbur Hotel property on Fifth street, was sold to the First National Bank. The Bank directorate does not contemplate any change in the property at this time, having no definite plans prepared, but ultimately the hotel building will be transformed into one of the finest banking rooms in the Monongahela valley.

Frank J. Zwick, who owned the building, will continue the hotel for the time being, and until such time as the bank has arrived at a definite conclusion as to what plans it wishes carried out. The First National is one of our leading financial institutions, its growth in the past few years having been a matter of great satisfaction to officers and stockholders alike. The need for more room in which to transact business has been apparent for some time, and the acquisition of the hotel property will give them a location without a peer in town.

This makes the second hotel property sold in Charleroi within a period of about ten days, and indicates that two of the oldest hostelries in our city will ultimately be things of the past.

Tri-District Teachers Institute Opens with Good Attendance

The opening session of the Tri-District Teachers' Institute was held in the high school auditorium Monday afternoon, beginning at 1:15 o'clock. Practically all of the 179 teachers in the district were in attendance and from the interest manifested by all of them it is a foregone conclusion that the Institute will be a success.

The sessions were opened with devotional exercises led by Rev. G. A. Allison of the M. E. church, which was followed by an address of welcome by Superintendent Pollock of the Charleroi schools.

The regular program of the Institute was then taken up Dr. W. N. Ferris, of Michigan, giving an address on the fundamentals, in which he emphasized the importance of reading, writing, spelling, and arithmetic, at the same time mentioning other subjects which he will discuss at greater length on other days of the institute.

The other speaker of the afternoon was Dr. C. B. Wood, of Monongahela, County Medical Inspector, whose topic was "The Teacher as a Life Saver." Dr. Wood represented the State Department of Health and gave some valuable suggestions to the teachers on certain phases of health and sanitation.

Dr. Henry S. Jackson, of Washington City, who was to have made an address on "The School House as a Community Center," was not present, and it developed that he had duplicated the date with the Allegheny County Institute. However he is expected to be here Thursday afternoon at which time he is scheduled to speak on the same subject.

Other interesting subjects in connection with the Institute are scheduled for the remaining sessions, and Dr. Conwell's lecture Thursday evening is being looked forward to with the greatest of interest.

SUGAR SUPPLY HAD BEEN EXHAUSTED

Monongahela has been advised by the authorities at Washington City that the car of sugar it desired to buy was not available, as the government supply had been exhausted. It was decided at a public meeting held last Friday evening to purchase a car of sugar and the city council agreed to advance the money. An order was forwarded on Saturday, but on Monday morning a telegram was received stating that the sugar desireed was not available. This was a great disappointment to the people of that city, as like other localities it has been quite difficult for the people to get the desired amount of sugar necessary for canning purposes

TITLE GAME THIS EVENING AT PARK

The Charleroi and Monongahela baseball teams will meet in one of the title clashes this evening at the local ball park, and the outcome of the game will have a material effect on the standing of the teams. If the locals win it will tie them with Monongahela for first place; if the visitors win it will give them a commanding lead for league honors. The game will be called at 6:15 p. m. It is likely that Braithwood will pitch for Charleroi, while Rapp is scheduled to do the heaving for the visitors.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lancaster died at the home of the parents 308 1-2 Shady avenue, August 26. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock with interment at West Newton.

JOY-RIDING HABITS GETS MONESSEN YOUTHS INTO TROUBLE

PREFERRED WORKHOUSE TO JAIL SENTENCE

Ed Brown and Robert Johnson, colored, who were arreste in Monongahela several weeks ago on the day that city celebrated the return of their soldiers, and who had been confined in jail since that time, asked Judge Brownson to change their sentence from a term in jail to the workhouse. The men were arrested for attempting to pick pockets.

STATE POLICE NOT CALLED TO SERVICE

Rumors that the State Police would be called to assist in quelling the disturbances in Pittsburg caused by the attempt to run street cars, are met with a statement from Harrisburg that the State troopers will not be sent to that city until the Sheriff of Allegheny county has exhausted all his resources in preserving order. The first duty is up to the Mayor of the city, and if he fails it will be the uty of the Sheriff to step in and take charge, and in the event of his failure the State will be called upon for assistance. So far as the authorities at Harrisburg are concerned they knew nothing of the conditions at Pittsburg.

BOY DROWNED AT BELLEVERNON POOL

Fred Driver, aged 14 years a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Driver was drowned at a swimming pool in the Monongahela river, near the Belle Vernon glass works Sunday afternoon last about 2 o'clock. The young man was said to have been an inexperienced swimmer, but took the fatal plunge from a spring board in use at the pool. When he did not come to the surface other bathers became alarmed and rescue parties were quickly organized to secure the body. It was not until 3:30 that the body was recovered and taken to Browneller's undertaking rooms, where it was prepared for burial. The river at the point where the drowning occurred is quite deep which has made it a popular place for river bathing.

MONESSEN CIDER IS AWFULLY HARD

Hard cider in Monessen appears to have the real "kick," according to the returns made by the police and the burgess. The officials of that town are called upon quite frequently to take charge of persons who have partaken too freely of a certain brand of hard cider sold as a "soft" drink but which appears to have the real "pop."

Took Cars From Garages and Used them for their Own Pleasure

THREE ARE ASSESSED $30 EACH

The practice of a certain coterie of young men of Monessen, who have been in the habit of taking cars out of garages and joy riding when the owners were not using them, received a rude jolt this morning when Burgess Stewart of that town fined three of the culprits $15 and costs and at the same time assessed the damages on a tire.

It has been known for some time that a number of young men have been in the habit of taking cars from garages and using them at various times, joy riding with their lady friends, but up until Monday morning it had been impossible to catch any of them. It was the practice of these young men, who were well acquainted with the garages, to select the car wanted and if it happened to need a new tire, would take one out of stock and replace an old one, after which they would take the machine out and have a fine time driving about the country when the machine was returned the tires were changed back and everything made to look like normal.

Sunday evening one of these young men was seen driving a car which was known to have been taken from its garage, but he managed to get back without being apprehended. Monday morning about 2:30 o'clock he returned to the garage for the purpose of changing a tire he had replaced when he was arrested. When placed under arrest he gave the names of two other young men who had been with him, and they were also ordered to appear for a hearing before the Burgess, which was held this morning. The Burgess did not desire to hold them under the state law, but assessed them each a fine of $15 and costs as well as for damages to a tire of $42 the total averaging $30 for each offender. The lesson will likely break up the practice, which had become quite annoying to garage managers as well as to owners of cars.

A UNION MAN'S VIEW

J. H. Ferguson, president of the Baltimore Federation of Labor, has written the Manufacturer's Record his views on the present state of unrest so apparent in this country, and particularly in the industrial world, in which he says:

Strident voices of the fomenters of unrest do not cause me any serious apprehension. Changes we ought to have; changes we shall have. Where there are grievances to redress, where there are wrongs existing, we must all aid in trying to right them to the best of our conscience and ability. To the extent that social and economic institutions however deep and ancient their roots may be found to stand in the way of the highest achievable level of social justice and the widest attainable extension of opportunity, welfare and contentment they will have to submit to change. And the less obstructive and stubborn the more broad-minded, co-operative, sympathetic and disinterested those who preeminently prospered under the old conditions will prove themselves in meeting the spirit of the new day and the reforms which it may justly call for, the better it will be both for them and the community at large. "Society," said Pope Leo XIII, "can be healed in no other way than by a return to Christian life and Christian institutions." The truth of these words is more widely perceived today than when they were written more than twenty-seven years ago. Changes in our economic and political systems will have only partial and feeble efficiency if they be not reinforced by the Christian view of work and wealth. No program of betterment will prove reasonably effective without a reform in the spirit of both capital and labor. The labor must come to realize that he owes his employer and society an honest day's work in return for a fair wage and that conditions cannot be substantially improved until he roots out the desire to get a maximum of service. The capitalist must likewise get a new viewpoint. He needs to learn the long-forgotten truth that wealth is stewardship: that profit-making is not the basic justification of business enterprise and that there are such things as fair profits fair interest and fair prices. Above and before all, he must cultivate and strengthen within his mind the truth which many of his class have already begun to grasp, namely that the laborer is a human being, not merely an instrument of production, and that the laborer's right to a decent livelihood is the first moral charge upon industry.

I shall work with all my strength to bring about changes as the needs of the people become apparent. I shall earnestly strive to realize what formerly were considered unattainable ideals. But I shall do all this in the American way of sane and orderly progress—and in no other.

IS WELL ARMED.

The administration at Washington has now been armed with all the implements it has asked for to battle with the food profiteers of the country. There seems no end to the money provided for that work.

The Republican majority in both branches of Congress has made it the policy of their party to aid in every possible way to reduce the burdensome cost of living and secure the punishment of the profiteers as the attorney general insists he will do, but many Republicans and Democrats alike are without hope of feeding America first in view of the very general practice of sending immense qualities of food overseas.

Exports of food and food commodities during the last twelve months, according to official figures, increased to such an extent that during the week ended June 30 there was a gain of 262 per cent in the number of cars of export freight received at North Atlantic ports over the corresponding week of 1918. In the last week of June last year 1,607 cars of export freight were delivered and in the same period this year 5,825 cars arrived at the same ports.

These figures are starting, especially in the face of the unreasonable prices charged for all foodstuffs in this country. A presidential proclamation prohibiting the exporation of foodstuffs would in all probability go a long way to relieve the food situation here at home.

The Shantung provision in the Covenant of the League of Nations, by means of which Japan is given authority over 40,000,000 Chinese and a large extent of the territory of the Chinese Empire, is the rock on which the President and the Senate is apt to split. Many senators contend that the United States should never be a party to that part of the agreement, which takes goods stolen by Germany and turns them over to the United States.

WASHINGTON FAIR WAS OPENED TODAY

The Washington Fair opened at Arden Downs this morning and with prospects of good weather it promises to be one of the most successful exhibitions ever held by the association. A large number of harness events have been scheduled for each day of the fair, while the exhibits are above the average. One feature which affect the attendance is the lack of street car servicee, although there will be plenty of taxis in service between Washington and the fair grounds. A large number of Charleroi people are contemplating a visit to the fair, going over by auto.

If there is any food hoarding—and the report of the Federal Trade Commission indicates large stocks in store—there ought to be some way to reach and punish the hoarders. High prices are not by any means the result simply of hoarding, but if that evil has contributed in any degree to aggravate the gravity of the existing conditions those who have committed it are public enemies.

Three Kinds of Forest Fires.

There are three kinds of forest fires —the "surface fire," which merely runs in the leaves and ground litter; the "ground fire," that covers the underbrush and the dense forests, and the "crown fire," the most dangerous and terrifying of all. A crown fire is usually caused when the ground or surface fire reaches the top of a ridge or knoll, and the increased draft carries the blaze up the trunks of the trees to the tops of the "crowns." It is the crown fires which have made the great forest fires of history. Surrounding the burning area by a trench from which everything down to the mineral soil has been removed is the only kind of fire line which will stop a ground fire, and it will often stop a surface fire. For surface fire "whipping" or using brush branches or water soaked sacking to whip the burning leaves at the edge of the fire back into the burned area is most effective. Sand as well as water is valuable in fighting this kind of fire, too. There is only one way to fight a crown fire—that is, by "backfiring"—fighting fire with fire.

Right Kind of Spunk.

You must never give up until you reach the goal aimed at. Obstacles are the test stones for discovering strength. When sure you are right there can be no real excuse for your failure. Bruce learned from the spider that instead of moping he should spunk up and keep spunked up. History never tires recounting his successes. Cyrus Field knew what it meant when the Atlantic cable parted repeatedly as if in defiance of human invention. But he kept at it and joined together the continents. The same spirit led Edison to make 2,500 trials before he got the results he sought in the incandescent light. Weak men would have given up early in the game. The right kind of spunk is the energy that brings things to pass and makes fortunes.—Pennsylvania Grit.

At a meeting of the Monongahela Valley Central Trades Council held August 7th, 1919, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

JITNEYS ORDERED TO QUIT BUSINESS

The Public Service Commission has ordered that a number of jitney operators in Pittsburgh, who have been running motor cars carrying passengers during the street car strike, cease business. About 18 operators have been notified by the State authorities to cease activities, although the jitneys are conceded to be a public benefaction at this time. There are some cars operating between Charleroi and Allenport while the strike is on, and are accommodating a number of people who find it necessary to travel between these two points. In addition a small gasoline boat, the C. B., owned by C. L. Chester of Bele Vernon, is running between the local warf and Fayette City and is carrying quite a number of passengers.

The boat is all-steel construction and will have power much larger than any of the boats now in use on the Monongahela. The Homestead, a companion boat of the W. R. Clingerman, and which is being completed at the shops of James Rees' Sons, in Pittsburg, will be ready for service about the last of September.

Monday was pay day at the Allenport plant of the Pittsburg Steel Products Company, all of the men who were laid off two weeks ago receiving their money. It is said that a portion of the finishing department of this mill is running, but that only a comparatively few men are working.

On Both Sides of the Continent—52,000 Miles Per Tire

As far apart as the distance that separates them are the road conditions in central California and Massachusetts.

And yet, with all the diversity of road changes and stiff grades, Goodrich De Luxe Truck Tires on trucks in these states have amassed the incredible mileage of 52,000 miles per tire and are still serving.

In Massachusetts this splendid record was made on a 6½ ton coal truck operated by the Lajoie Coal Co., of Lowell. The very name of the commodity hauled and the size of the truck gives evidence of the bruising character of the service.

Out west, in Oakland, Cal., these Goodrich De Luxe Tires mastered equally severe conditions The truck was a 5-ton unit, the operator, the Shell Gasoline Company.

Such magnificent service achievements under radically different conditions, testify vividly to the mighty durability and economy of these De Luxe Tires. The very apparent possibilities in these tires should, for economy's sake, induce you to try them.

SOLDIERS ASKED TO KEEP INSURANCE

Secretary of the Treasury Carter Glass, recently signed a decision of momentous importance and interest to discharged soldiers, sailors and marines.

In the decision (T. D. 47 W. R.) the Secretary ruled that discharged soldiers, sailors and marines who have dropped t heir insurance may reinstate in within eighteen months after discharged without paying the back premiums. All they will be asked to pay will be the premium on the amount of insurance to be reinstated for the month of grace in which they were covered and for the current month.

Thus, for example, if a man dropped $10.000 of insurance in January 1919 and applies for reinstatement the first of August for $5,000, all he will have to pay will be the premium for January (the month of grace) on $5.000 and the premium for August on $5,000. Or if he applies for reinstatement of the full $10.000, he will pay a total of two months' premiums on $10,000. one for January and one for August. He will not have to pay premiums in either case for the intervening months.

The decision of the foregoing stipulates that the former service man applying for reinstatement be in as good health as at date of discharge.

Former Treasury Decision W. R. 45 and other prior regulations inconflict with the new decision are revoked.

Director R. G. Chamely-Jones of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, following the signing of the decision made the following statement:

"The present decsion is one of the most important to former service men that has been made in the history of the Bureau.

"Many service men have been deterred from availing themselves of the former and less liberal reinstatement privileges by reason of the relatively large amount of money represented by accumulated overdue premiums, and that it would seem that they were paying something that they never actually had, which in fact, was the case.

"Under the new decision a man is relieved of the burden of overdue premiums. He has an opportunity to rehabilitate himself financially after getting out of the Army, Navy or Marine Corps, and to reinstate his insurance anytime within eighteen months following discharge without the burden of paying a large amount of money.

"The reason payment for the month of grace is required under the new decision is that the insured was protected by reason of his nsurance continuing in force during that month, and that had he died during the period of grace, his policy would have been paid.

"Should a lapse again occur, after the eighteen months from date of discharge, reinstatment may be made, providing that at the time of application for reinstatement, such insurance shall not have been lapsed for more than one year, in accordance with the conditions of the decision.

"Of course every man who has dropped his insurance should reinstate imediately, for the reason that if he should die before reinstatement his dependents will not receive any payment.

"Therefore, I urge that care be taken to make c lear to every former-service man who has dropped his insurance that the new ruling does not automotically reinstate him, and to impress upon him that he will be without insurance until he voluntarily applies for and secures reinstatement. He should immediately apply for reinstatement for his own protection and that of his dependents.

"Don't forget that men die or become disabled in peace time as well as in war time, and that if a man waits he may not be in as good health as he was at the time of his discharge and consequently may not be able to secure reinstatement."

"Don't put off reinstatement." Do it now."

PICTURE THAT WOULD LIVE

Study for a Painter Suggested in Incident in the Early Life of Daniel Webster.

When Daniel Webster was eight years old he saw in a country shop a cotton handkerchief with something printed on both sides of it. He gave his whole stock of hoarded pennies to secure it and absorbed its contents that night with his keen dark eyes, on his father's kitchen floor, by the light of the roaring chimney fire. What painter will be the first to make that scene perpetual in our country's history and art? It was the Constitution of the United States, just then in the dawn of its beneficent power under the lead of President Washington, that the New Hampshire lad was then stamping on his memory. He told the story himself in 1850, and archly said: "I have known more or less of that document ever since." . . . Forty years from that winter came the great Hayne debate. But I would travel farther to see a master's picture of the lad, reading the Constitution in the rude home on the edge of the northern wilderness, than to see Healey's great painting of the orator in the senatorial struggle against the theories and passions of secession; as I would go farther to see a picture of the springs of the Amazon, far up under the cold white splinters of the Andes, than the most adequate representation of the imperial river's tropical course.—Thomas Starr King.

GAVE IDEA TO INVENTORS

Timothy Alden's Typesetting Machine First of the Kind to Be Placed on the Market.

Timothy Alden was born in Barnstable, Mass., 96 years ago. He was the first man to invent a typesetting machine. In his boyhood Timothy was apprenticed to a printer. He was a born inventor, and almost from his first day in the printing office he began to think of plans for improving the various processes connected with the typographical art. He invented several machines connected with printing before he turned his attention to the mechanical setting of type. After several years of study he produced his first model of a typesetting machine in 1846. This machine consisted of a horizontal rotating wheel with type cells on its circumference making receivers rotate with it to pick out the type at the proper places. This appliance was ingenious, but it effected no improvement over hand composition. Timothy Alden died in Boston in 1878, and his brother, Henry, later made several improvements in the machine. Timothy Alden's machine had the merit of setting others to thinking about the same problem, with the result that hand composition is rapidly becoming a thing of the past.

All About Eggs.

In a hen's egg only one-fifth of the substance is nutritious. One-ninth is refuse, and the greater portion, about two-thirds, is water.

Judged by the amount of nutriment, a goose's egg is the most valuable; next in order are duck's, guinea fowl's, hen's, turkey's.

Eggs contain a large quantity of sulphur, which is purifying to the blood and good for the complexion.

To get the best egg you must feed your fowl on grain.

And to cook it in the most digestible way you must not boil the water. Heat the water to 180 degrees and leave the egg in it for ten minutes. You will then digest every morsel. But if you boil it for three minutes no less than one-twelfth of it will fail to be digested.—Short Stories.

Gasoline to Be Mined.

The latest estimates of the United States geological survey show that if gasoline continues to be used up at the present rate, all the petroleum fields now in use will be exhausted before 1950. Where, then, will the future supply of gasoline come from? Billions of dollars are involved in the question. The probable answer is that "mined" gasoline will be used.

Colorado, Utah and other Western and middle Western states contain extensive oil-bearing deposits of bituminous shale. Crude oil can be extracted from them and this can be distilled further to obtain gasoline.

It is estimated that enough gasoline could be produced in this way to equal many times the amount obtained from all present-day fields.

A Muddled Moujik.

Mr. Tower, former American ambassador to Russia, told this story of a typical moujik entering a railroad station and inquiring when a certain train would leave. He received the information and departed.

A little later, however, he was back again, asking the same question.

"Why," exclaimed the agent, "I told you that only a minute ago."

"You did truly," the moujik answered. "But it isn't myself that wants to know this time, it's my mate outside."—Boston Transcript.

Her Words of Cheer.

Mary was writing a letter to her Uncle Peter, who had almost lost the use of his legs by having rheumatism.

"Be sure to write a cheerful letter, Mary," admonished her mother; "you know Uncle Peter has been sick."

An hour later Mary showed this letter to her mother: "Deer Unckle: I am so sorry that you have been sick. Why don't you go to heaven? They will give you a pair of wings there and you can rest your poor tired legs."

HOW "OLD ORDER CHANGETH"

British Miner No Longer the Grimy Individual He Has Been So Frequently Pictured.

A new type of miner is being evolved at Atherton, Lancashire, through the growing popularity of the baths at Messrs. Fletcher, Burrows and company's collieries. At first only 10 per cent of the men used them; now the figure is 50 per cent. The miner now goes to work in tweeds and brown boots instead of his oldest clothes and clogs. He no longer besmirches the seats of tramways and railway carriages with the grime of his calling. Nor does he drive his wife to despair with the amount of work he brings into the house each day. He goes home spruce and well groomed, with no signs of the weariness so characteristic of the men "coming up."

"All the young men use the baths," said the keeper of the bathhouse. "Some of the older men don't."

"They are learning sense," volunteered an old miner. "And I wonder the women didn't teach it to some of them a bit sooner.

"Convenience!" His eyes twinkled. "Why, man, if I wanted to jazz I could bring my dress clothes here and be ready for the ball twenty minutes after I got out of the cage. No, I'm not going to start jazzing—not at my time of life. But I might be going to a directors' banquet one of these days. You never know in these times." Fifteen minutes suffice for a miner's bath. Men in a hurry take a little less, dandies a little more. They find their own soap and towels.—London Times

MAN WHO DOESN'T GROW UP

Just What Is Wrong With Individual Who Fails to "Keep Up With the Procession."

Insufficient occupation and the consciousness of not being of much use nearly always explain the man who does not grow up. There may have been a period in his life when he was an admired ornament of society, when his cleverness was applauded, when his violent assertions and rash criticisms and absurd resentments were listened to as the outpourings of an interesting and awakening mind and were valued perhaps for some facility in utterance; but the mind has not matured, perhaps because it never was forced to grapple with anything vital, and the facility in utterance that was a charm in youth has dwindled with years to peevish fluency in objection, censure and condemnation. The man who at twenty-five is still a dabbler, with a faculty for raising a laugh by his trenchant disparagements of the achievements of grown men, is likely at sixty to be complaining of the cooking and the weather, the high prices and the policy of the administration—or living only for the purpose of expressing his discontent with the universe.

A man needs time in which to grow up, but if he does not fertilize time with work he will be only the weed of a man.—Youth's Companion.

Quack Remedies.

"Bolshevism can't make this poor world of ours a heaven," said Mayor Cornell Schreiber of Toledo, O. "Bolshevism is a quack remedy, and the bolshevik remind me of Blanc.

"To Blanc who had a cure for everything, Nore remarked that his overworked brother couldn't be induced to take a holiday.

"'He's terribly run down,' said Nore, 'but he won't lay off—says he'd be lost without his profession.'

"'Humph,' said Blanc. 'What is your brother's profession, may I ask?'

"'Chiropodist,' said Nore.

"'Then,' said Blanc, 'the thing is easy. Let him take his holiday at the foot of a mountain or in the fertile corn country of the middle West and for holiday reading let him purchase "The Pilgrim's Progress," by Bunyan.'"

Discouraging Art.

"Why do you spend your days and nights on these pictures?" asked the wife of the struggling artist. "You don't get enough for them to pay you for the paint you use."

"I know, my dear," he answers; "but think! Rembrandt and others painted pictures and sold them for trifles, and they are now the masterpieces of the world and bring millions of dollars! I am not painting for us. I am painting for our descendants."

"Humph!" is the discouraging reply. "You don't make enough for us to afford to raise any descendants."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Strategy.

"Making friends is all very well, but a man should be careful about the kind of friends he makes," remarked Mr. Gadspur.

"My sentiments exactly," said Mr. Dubwaite. "Whenever a newcomer moves into my neighborhood and looks as if he might want to borrow my garden tools three or four days a week I find out what his political views are and take the opposing side."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

An Old Sad Story.

"This scenario," said the eager author, "is about a girl who waited for months for a letter of forgiveness from her lover and then married another man who—"

"Wait a minute," exclaimed the movie manager.

"What's the matter? Too old?"

"No. Too modern. We're not going to roast the government. The post office has had criticism enough."

Big Dye Factories.

And They Come High.

"It sounds funny," said the facetious feller, "but most deep thinkers have lofty thoughts."

Optimistic Thought.

I regret often that I have spoken, never that I have been silent.

A good story is told of a political meeting held in a well-known town in the north of Ireland. The mayor and aldermen had consented to attend in their robes, and, as it happened, they were late in arriving, and to keep things going the audience started singing "Hold the Fort, for I Am Coming," but it was distinctly unfortunate that just as the mayor entered at the head of the imposing civic procession, the congregation happened to be singing the lines: "The mighty host advansing, Satan leading on!"

Quick Work.

Nobbs—"Why, hello, old chap! Heard you had been in a railroad wreck, and here you are up and around. Speedy recovery, eh?" Hobbs—"Speedy is no name for it. The claim agent was on the train and settled with me for $5,000 right on the spot."

Ominous Indications.

"What career do you intend to map out for your child." "I don't know. I'll have to do something to keep him from following his natural bent. The way he despises authority and wants to play with matches makes me think he's cut out for a socialist."
